»DIE kleine BERLIN-STATISTIK 2012«(statistics for the City of Berlin 2012, key facts and figures) offers information on the development of the German capital, based on the most important statistical results.

This brochure is divided into chapters on different topics. Chapters 1 – 27 present figures on the city's demographic, economical, social, cultural and political structures. As far as possible, developments have been highlighted by comparing with the figures for the years 2003, 2007 and 2011. The brochure also contains information on the city's boroughs (Chapter 28), data on Berlin's development since 1871 (Chapter 29) and accumulated figures for the region of Berlin/Brandenburg (Chapter 30).

On 31 December 2011 the area of Berlin covered 892 km². 369 km² of it were Buildings and associated open spaces and 133 km² traffic areas. Their share was 41.4 and 14.9 percent.

At the end of 2011 Berlin had 3,501,872 inhabitants. Compared to the beginning of the year that has been 41,147 persons more. Therewith the registered population increase continuously increased since the year 2005. At the end of 2011 478,212 foreigners lived in Berlin. Represented most citizens of Turkey with 22.3 percent and Poland with 8.6 percent.

At the end of 2011, there were 2.0 million dwellings in Berlin, 4,424 more than at the end of 2010. Most of these new dwellings were built in Pankow (1,161) and Lichtenberg (762).

2011 there were in Berlin 2.0 million households. 54 percent of them were Single-person households.

With around 22.4 million overnight stays in accommodation establishments in Berlin as well as 9.9 million guests once again the figures of the previous year were surpassed and thereby broke the record for the ninth time in a row. The accommodation establishments announced 9 percent more arrivals of guests and 7.5 percent more overnight stays than in 2010.

The national economic in Berlin developed positive in 2011. The price-adjusted gross domestic product increased by 2.3 percent. The medium-term analysis of price-adjusted economic development shows a slightly but steadily upward development since 1991, however, a decrease in 2009.

In 2011 there were two large elections in Berlin. Besides the Berlin Chamber of Deputies (Berliner Abgeordnetenhaus) also the elections to the Borough council Assemblies (Bezirksverordnetenversammlungen). The SPD with 28.3 percent of the second votes is the strongest party in Berlin, followed by the CDU with 23.3 percent and the party »Bündnis 90/Die Grünen« with 17.6 percent.

»DIE kleine BERLIN-STATISTIK 2012« gives an initial overview of the data provided by official statistics. A similar brochure has been published for the federal state of Brandenburg (»DIE kleine BRANDENBURG-STATISTIK 2012«).

Those interested can also find a similarly structured selection of figures and data for the Federal Republic of Germany as well as benchmark figures for the German federal states in the »Pocketbook: Germany«, published by the Federal Statistical Office and under www.statistikportal.de.

04 Households and Families

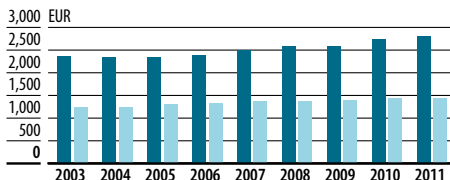

Every community of persons living together and forming an economical unit as well as persons who live alone and, nevertheless, manage for themselves are counted as a household (private household). A household may include relatives and persons who do not belong to the family as such (e.g. partners in life).

Married couples with children as well as single parents and unmarried couples with their unmarried children living in the same household are counted as families.

14 National Accounts

National accounts (VGR) are a statistical system for presenting a comprehensive, overall view of the economic activities of all business entities in Berlin. They are based on the European System of national accounts (ESA 1995) and the Classification of Industries (WZ 2008). At the centre of national accounts is the origin of the gross domestic product (GDP) as a measure of performance in Berlin.

16.1 Employment and Compensation of Employees

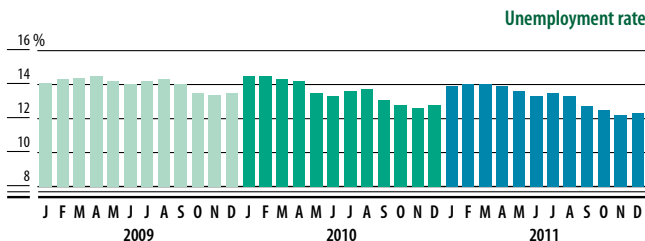

The number of employed persons along with their wages and salaries are determined within the scope of national account. The figures on the number of employed persons correspond to the workplace concept; that is, all employed persons who have their job in Berlin are taken into consideration. In the result for income creation the figure for employee earnings reflects all of the cash and non-cash benefits accrued to employees working in Berlin from work or other employment relationships.

The parties received parliamentary seats in accordance with their share of the valid second votes. A party which won more direct parliamentary seats than it was entitled to in accordance with its share of the second votes in the entire polling area was authorised to retain such seats won in addition to the number gained through proportional representation. The other parties received as many compensatory seats as were required for allocation of the parliamentary seats in accordance with the proportion of the second votes.
